

Jeff Lucchesi Joins Office of the CIO

Taos is thrilled to welcome Jeff Lucchesi as a Principal Consultant in our Office of the CIO Practice. Jeff brings 30 years of experience with him and has led a distinguished career in IT across multiple industries.

Most recently, he served as Senior VP and CIO at BMHC, a publicly held company in the construction industry. Prior to BMHC, Jeff led Worldwide Operations for Corio, Inc., an enterprise application provider recently acquired by IBM. At Corio, he directed an organization of 180+ staff in the U.S. and India, supporting over 100 clients using enterprise ERP systems.

Jeff also spent over five years with DHL Airways in various roles, including Vice President and CIO. He is well respected by his peers, many of whom have worked for him as part of his leadership teams and have since gone on to become successful CIOs themselves. In fact, Jeff is so well-known and valued, that after only one week since joining Taos, he is already working on a four-month leadership consulting engagement with a long-time Taos client.

Given Jeff's tenure and track record of success, Taos is excited to be able to offer yet another great resource and talented addition to our network.
